

Understanding your new MWA Bill

A KEY INGREDIENT TO MANAGING YOUR MONTHLY WATER USE IS UNDERSTANDING ACTUAL WATER USE AND HOW YOU ARE BILLED FOR THAT USE.

The following slides should help you better understand your monthly statement as well as provide a few helpful hints for using the monthly bill and the water meter to check for potential leaks.

Key Term(s)

CURRENT – Your account is in good standing. It is current and no past due balances are owed

PAST DUE – A payment has not been received as of the bill's due date

Understanding your MWA Bill

- Account information includes Customer name, service address, bill date, and location class. Service address may differ from mailing address. Service address indicates the address at which water/sewer is being used.
- Billing Information: this section sub-totals the current charges for each service you have with the MWA. Tier1 charges the first three units at a lower rate. Tier2 charges are all subsequent usage charges. 1 unit=748 gallons. Total Current Charges lists all monies due to the MWA for this monthly bill.
- Usage information: A bar graph, month by month, of the past 12 months of volume use. This provides historical data that can help determine high and low levels of use year over year. Customers can also see irrigation meter consumption if applicable.
- Water Meter Readings: actual data from the water meter dials and shows the current month's reading, the previous month's reading, and usage in units (1 unit = 748 gallons) and total gallons used. This section notifies the customer if the meter was read or estimated for the month.
- Account standing: Find your new MWA account number, any outstanding balance, recent payments, and current charges due date in the top right or bottom right of the bill.
- Payment options: a variety of different payment options are available to customers, and detailed on the back of this bill.
- Payment stub: This section should be returned with your payment if you are using US Mail to pay your balance.
- Round Up: Round your bill to the next highest dollar amount, and make a donation to the Macon Water Alliance. More information available on the back of this bill.
- Penalties and fees: late penalties are either 10% of the bill or $3.00, whichever is higher, and are applied to the account 5 days after the due date. An Administrative fee of $15.00 is added to the account balance 5 days after the late fee.

How to Read Your Meter and Locate a Potential Leak at Your Property

Read the first four digits on the meter. Look at your most recent water bill. Obtain your current reading. Subtract the read on your bill from the read on the meter. You now have the number of units used since the meter was last read. 1 unit = 748 gallons.
